As an individual active in the safety, health and environmental profession, regardless of whether you are just beginning your career or are a seasoned professional, it is important to get connected with others in your field. You can do that with the American Society of Safety Engineers (ASSE).

Professionals can grow skill sets and increase value to their employer through ASSE’s professional development training; stay on top of the latest trends, industry standards and regulations through ASSE’s numerous publications; and exchange ideas and solve challenges through ASSE’s network of local chapters and national practice specialty groups.

Practice specialties supplement ASSE’s broad-based, general activities with focused, individualized programs. They provide convenient contact with peers, technical information and news, and serve as a technical resource for the entire society.

ASSE’s chapter structure gives each member a grassroots opportunity to network with local colleagues and develop leadership skills. In addition, monthly chapter meetings give members a chance to obtain professional development.

Please allow two weeks following receipt of complete application for notification of your election to membership.

ASSE does not discriminate in employment, admission to membership or admission of speakers or registrants to its programs or activities on the basis of race, color, religion, gender, age, sexual orientation, disability, national or ethnic origin, veteran status or any other basis prohibited by state or local law.
